Race 2

Pace • Fillies and Mares, Non-Winners 3 Ext. PM Races Lifetime

4 - RB'S CATCHMEIFUCAN levelled off turning for home last week, but she did significant work in the middle stages of the race to force a :28.2 third quarter in the breeze and ramp up the pressure on Princess Di even more through the far turn. Post advantage is far more significant this time. 6 - WISHES FOR ASHLEE certainly didn't lack for pace last week, but lacked for room when she bullied out of traffic in upper stretch. Improving closer offers a credible mid-price option, provided she's got space to take aim. 2 - FLASHIFUL was a two-move winner on debut for Callahan in a N1L event after racing on the Ohio fair circuit this summer. She's got tons of upside, but she'll ahve to step up in terms of raw speed to handle the hike. 8 - PRINCESS DI nearly turned her middle move into a 15-1 upset last week, but 6-5 favorite Red Rock Ruby rallied to get the better of her. She's 2-for-51 but she's shown signs of improving compete level in recent weeks.

Race 10

Trot • NW $7,500 Last 4 Sts or TM Rating < 82, Opt. Clm. $15k

8 - TYMAL TIGGS was even but no threat against two levels tougher at Pocono in his first start back since June. His Pocono and Philly lines from the spring indicate considerably more ability than the rest; can he get back to that form second out? Also, Fox has hit the board with nearly half his starters this meet and is winning at over 20%. 1 - YALL JUST LOVE ME is back in for the $15k tag and draws with the inside group as such. She's hit the board in four straight races and kept overland bids alive with aplomb at Shenandoah. Switch to three turns should boost her staying power. 7 - YOUNGBLOOD did the heaviest lifting in defeat to Zuzu Zoom on arrival two weeks ago and has proven himself in comparable classes in Virginia. Likely to be involved from the outset again. 5 - ZUZU ZOOM rises after winning out of the N6L class, and she carries a three-race win streak here. Versatile sort may take a little too much play, though, given her trajectory.

Trot • Winners 2-5 Ext. PM Races Lifetime

1 - TWISTED JANET lost all chance to compete two weeks ago when she broke stride at the start, but she made halfway decent ground late in the mile to save the last minor. Let's draw a line through the first part of that start. Given strong front-end scores from wide draws in N2L, this hike should be made more manageable by way of the cozy inside draw. 8 - ESPECIAL did the heaviest lifting at this level two and three back after a front-end N3L win four back. Sustained mild bid last week behind the ironclad Zappa noted. 6 - I'M EARLY HANOVER stayed on to hit the super in his last two after being overmatched at Harrington in September. Another one trending upward, but others boast stronger raw speed. 9 - KINNDER KAHINA fits that bill, closing for second in sub-1:57 performances twice in her last three. Wide draw is a new wrinkle for the 6-time winner.

Pace • Fillies and Mares, Claiming $5,000

9 - WESTERN FLAMES has won four of five, all at this level or higher. A lack of other speed on paper helps her overcome post 9 with ease. Davis stays on over two others. The big question mark: How will she handle the change in connections and the month off? 1 - DEVILISH DREAMS passed tired foes for minors against tougher claimers twice in her last three. Bottoms out and draws the pole for connections that are heating up. 6 - SALTZ SHAKER beat first-level mares form an earned pocke tthree back, was overmatched two back, and chased OK to hold third on the drop to this tag last week. Picks up Roberts after early exertion took some starch out of her in a :26.1 quarter. 4 - MUSE LA ROUGE earned minors in five of six, mostly from off the pace, and 5 - LADY KAHN chased to hit the board in her last three, all against similar.
